

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Diary Entry By: JERRY MICELI

As I embark on my first ECI Tournament I realize two things, 1) I am the youngest player in the field, and 2) I will probably be mercilessly ridiculed for being the rookie this year. My response to this... Bring It On! Marc has been telling me tales of the ECI and the shenanigans that go along with the whole weekend since I began my freshman year at Endicott back in '06. Now being able to play in the tournament I could not be more excited, not to mention my golf game has been fairly solid so far this season. I have recently joined Elmcrest Country Club in East Longmeadow, MA, and have been getting on the course at least 4 days a week. I also had the opportunity to play in the CT Match Play event two weekends ago and had the pleasure of meeting the other co-chairman of the tournament John Dailey. Although I lost the match, the competition was great and I look forward to seeing how we will match up against each other this weekend.

As far as Sunday goes, it is my feeling that if I can keep the ball in the short stuff, and have decent iron play throughout the day, the rookie may have a shot at winning this thing. Look forward to seeing/meeting you all on Saturday.
