ST. PATRICK'S DAY TRIVIA

Q: Why is it called corned beef if there is no corn in it?

A: In years past, large grains of salt, also known as "corns," were used to cure meats.

Q: Why are shamrocks associated with St. Paddy's Day?

A: St. Patrick supposedly used the three leaf plant as a metaphor for the Holy Trinity when he was introducing Christianity to Ireland.

Q: Did St. Patrick really drive all the snakes out of Ireland?

A: Irish lore says so, but scientists now know that it is unlikely that there were ever any snakes in Ireland, since it used to be too cold there for snakes to live.

Q: Has St. Patrick's Day always been such a big drinking holiday?

A: Nope. March 17 has always been a holiday in Ireland, but it used to be a religious holiday, meaning all pubs were closed. In the 1970s it was converted to a national holiday instead, and pubs could then open.
